'T WAS A GREAT SHOW.

Thursday Night's Meeting Of Aldermanic Board.

Verbal Grape And Canister Punctured The City Hall Atmosphere.

Little Business Done For So Large An Amount Of Talk.

The meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen on Thursday evening was an unusual one. Into an hour was crowded a record-breaking conglomeration of recriminations, accusations and insinuations which will go down in local history as about the greatest jumble of ridiculous proceedings ever witnessed in the aldermanic chamber. The major part of the session was really a fight between Ald. Phinney and practically all the rest of the board. Ald. Phinney didn't like the way the board disposed of a petition from the telephone company, and so he gave his associates all the bother he could. They came back at him sharply, and it was slam bang on both sides. Among the spectators were a number of High school boys, interested in possible developments in the question of a new school building. They were apparently much edified at the actions of the city fathers. Most of them appeared confused as to what it all meant. The reporters who had to keep track of the incessant repartee were about as badly off themselves. Mayor McIntire, under the circumstances, maintained an admirable demeanor and commendable control of the situation. There were times, however, when the situation broke away from all hitch ropes. Really not much important business was accomplished. The report of the joint committee on a new High school building was tabled; a resolution aimed at itinerant hawkers was passed; and several petitions were considered. After all was said and done, however, it became clear that it had been little more than a show carried out on the lines of Haverley's Mastodon minstrels in their palmy days. Here is the programme from the time the curtain went up:

The full aldermanic board was present, with Mayor McIntire in the chair. As usual, the records of the previous meeting were read and approved. A petition for the extension of the sewer in Maplewood avenue, from a point about opposite the Franklin school to the top of the hill opposite the residence of S. B. Davis and L. W. Davis, signed by Frank J. Philbrick and others, was referred to the committee on sewers, to report.

Broad street property owners petitioned for the construction of a sewer in New Broad street; referred to the committee on sewers, to report.

To the committee on streets, to report, went a petition for an asphalt sidewalk on Hanover street.

Then came the item which raised a tempest in the aldermanic chamber which threatened at several stages to raise the roof from the city building. It was an innocent appearing petition from the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, asking a location for poles and wires on Bartlett street, from Lexington to Pine streets. The company agreed to reserve room at the top of the poles for the telephone, fire alarm and other wires used for municipal purposes.

Ald. Adams moved that the petition be granted. This brought Ald. Phinney into the arena, with the query, "Why hasn't the telephone company removed that pole in front of Hoxie's office on State street, in compliance with the orders of the board at a previous meeting? I move as an amendment to that motion that the petition lie on the table until the city clerk has ascertained the company's reasons for ignoring the instructions of this board."

Then ensued a grand fight over the amendment. Ald. Garrett did not consider that it was properly an amendment. He wanted Ald. Adams' motion to have right of way. So did Ald. Blaisdell.

The chair ruled that it was an amendment; and Ald. Phinney had scored once.

Said Ald. Garrett: "The idea of Ald. Phinney is a good one, but I don't like his way of putting it. I believe that when any alderman makes a motion here, it ought to be duly considered. For this reason, I objected to the amendment."

Ald. Blaisdell called for the yeas and nays. They were taken, with the following result: Yeas, Ald. Rand, Vaughan and Phinney; nays, Ald. Blaisdell, Garrett, Pray, C. F. Wells, Whitehouse, Adams and A. N. Wells. And the amendment was defeated.

First setback for Ald. Phinney.

The original motion of Ald. Adams now came up for notice again. Ald. Phinney said: "By passing this motion, the board will give the telephone company a right to put up poles anywhere on Bartlett street, with no restrictions. It ought not to be done, until the company has paid some attention to the order to remove that pole on State street."

Ald. C. F. Wells said: "I have seen Manager Drew of the company and he talks fairly enough. He says that the company wants to get its wires into the engine house on Bartlett street. I think he would be willing to have the poles set up under the supervision of the committee on streets, although he didn't say so to me."

Ald. Phinney returned to the attack. "This company," he said, "has been going around the city hacking off the limbs of our shade trees, and often cutting down the trees themselves, with no hindrance. It is time to call a halt. Our shade trees are going too fast. The telephone company has been given too free a hand, altogether."

Ald. Rand said that he thought there ought to be some restrictions.

The yeas and nays on Ald. Adams' motion prevailed by the following vote: Yeas, Ald. Blaisdell, Pray, C. F. Wells, Whitehouse, Adams and A. N. Wells; nays, Ald. Garrett, Rand, Phinney and Vaughan.

Mayor McIntire made the following statement to the board: "The city has granted the telephone company all the privileges, I think, that it ought to. No member of this board, I am sure, objects to the company putting its wires into the Sagamore engine house; but no attention has been paid to the direction of the board that the company should remove the pole on State street, and for this reason I am sorry that Ald. Adams' motion prevailed."

Ald. Garrett presented the following resolution, which was passed unanimously:

Resolved, That whereas, our city is at the present time over-run by peddlers, hucksters, agents for all kinds of mercantile purposes, who go from house to house, disposing of their goods, wares, and merchandise, also taking orders by samples. And whereas, some of the public buildings of the city are used by some of the above in the displaying of such, when taking orders. And such parties pay nothing into the public treasury either by tax or license, and that the above is against the best interests of the city, by reason of the sale of such articles by people who are residents of other states, cities and towns. And whereas, the real estate and mercantile interest of our city is seriously threatened by the inroads as aforesaid, and if continues must as it has already accomplished, cause the retiring from business of merchants, the discharge of clerks, the making vacant of stores and the final demoralization of business of all kinds. Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the City Solicitor be directed to draft an ordinance, which shall cause all such persons to pay a license, and make such other instructions as may prevent such unfair competition with our merchants, and residents, and also prevent our streets and public places from being used by non residents, for any purposes destructive to the best interests of the city.

The board accepted the auditor's monthly report of bills amounting to $434.85 and ordered the bills paid.

Ald. Phinney submitted the report of the joint committee on a new High school building, which was appointed to confer with a special committee from the board of instruction. The report recommends that the city government authorize the issuance of $100,000 worth of bonds, for the purpose of building a new High school building, in accordance with the state law.

Ald. Rand inquired if this would not exhaust the city's credit. Mayor McIntire thought it would not.

Ald. Rand moved that the report be laid on the table. This caused a renewal of the tempest in all its fury.

Ald. Phinney said: "Does the gentleman who makes this motion understand the question? If he was on the committee and had put in time looking up the matter, I wonder if he would like to have the committee's report treated in this manner. The committee does not ask that the report be adopted; but it looks to me like a clean slap in the face to put this report on the table. If that's the way it's disposed of, then you can cut me out of serving on any more special committees. I'm all through with it. But I'll have some fun with the rest, before I get done."

"It wasn't my idea to snub the report," said Ald. Rand. "I thought it could be laid on the table while we talked the matter over and got a better understanding of it."

The motion to table the report prevailed, all the members of the board, except Ald. Phinney, voting in favor of it.

Ald. Vaughan, chairman of the special committee on the Pearson and Miller claims, reported that the committee recommended the claimants be given leave to withdraw.

Up jumped Ald. Phinney, to ask, "Has that committee held a meeting yet? If so, when and where?"

Ald. Vaughan replied that the committee had met twice, once on the premises and again at city hall.

"I call for a written report, under the rules," said Ald. Phinney.

Ald. Vaughan wrote out a report and the mayor read it. The board accepted it, on motion of Ald. Blaisdell. Ald. Phinney alone sang out "No."

Ald. Whitehouse, for the committee on street lights, reported in favor of granting the petition for lights on Maplewood avenue, presented at the previous meeting.

Upon him Ald. Phinney turned his pom-pom, asking him when his committee had got together.

Ald. Whitehouse replied that they had not met together, but that he had been around and seen all the members and that they had told him to submit a favorable report.

"Question, Question!" called out Ald. Blaisdell.

Ald. Phinney wouldn't have it. "I object to the question," he said, "until I find out more about this committee business. Hereafter I shall make it a point to object to committee reports when there has been no regularly called meeting of the committee, if it is a committee to which I belong. I demand a written report from the committee on street lights."

Thereupon Ald. Whitehouse got out his little pencil, grabbed a pad and wrote a report, while the board waited and Ald. Phinney assumed the air of a conqueror.

Ald. Whitehouse leaned over and handed the report to Ald. Phinney for his signature. "No, sirree," exclaimed the latter. "I didn't meet with the committee and I won't sign my name to that report. I object to such a report."

Here Ald. Blaisdell unlimbered his field piece. He said: "Because the board has done a few things tonight which don't suit Ald. Phinney, he objects to these reports. I think the matter has been settled by Ald. Whitehouse's statement that Ald. Phinney told him to go ahead and hand in a favorable report."

The chair read the written report. Before anybody could make a motion on it, Ald. Phinney, who had reloaded his pom-pom, came into action again. "Do you that is a proper report?" he asked the chair, "when there was no meeting of the committee? I ask the chairman of that committee again: did you call a meeting?"

Now the action became general all over the field. The war correspondents who were on the spot had to use two pencils apiece to keep up with the charges and counter charges.

Ald. Adams galloped up with his reserves and allowed that Ald. Phinney was out of alignment, in other words, out of order. Ald. Garrett and Ald. Blaisdell were banging away, and it looked very murky for Ald. Phinney, who was busy brushing away the smoke that encircled his position.

But the chair ruled that Ald. Phinney was in order and the alderman from ward four, encouraged, assailed the keple of Ald. Whitehouse once more. "Have you called a meeting of this committee?" he roared.

A REMARKABLE COMBINATION FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

The Herald Shakespeare Club

The Plan.

The riddle of the sphinx has been solved. The greater riddle that is now agitating the literary world, "Did Shakespeare write the plays credited to him?" may never be. But it will not be for want of investigation. In the past year over a thousand Shakespearean Clubs have been organized to study the discoveries recently made to the "Cipher on the Tombstone" and the Cipher in the Plays themselves. The members want the text in the Cambridge edition, at a price that is not practically prohibitive, and in response to their demand twenty-five of the most prominent newspapers have united to print such an edition, for their subscribers and readers only, in handy pocket size, thirteen volumes, with the celebrated "Notes" by Israel Gollancz. By making an edition of 50,000 sets, the first or manufacturing cost of each volume has been so reduced that a handsome cloth-bound volume can be produced for 20 cents. This is less than one-fifth the cost of any similar edition. The special Shakespeare Club edition will be limited to members of the Clubs and Newspapers only, and The CHRONICLE and HERALD will control all that are taken in Portsmouth.

The Price to Members.

Each subscriber and reader of The CHRONICLE and HERALD will be considered a member of The CHRONICLE and HERALD Shakespeare Club and entitled to purchase the set of thirteen volumes at 20 cents a volume at The CHRONICLE and HERALD office, or 25 cents postpaid, so long as the edition lasts. The edition is limited and will not be reprinted at this price or any price near it. This edition absolutely eliminates all profits of dealers and middlemen, and all cost of advertising (which comprises 75 per cent. of the cost of every book,) giving them to the subscribers. They can save them in no other way than this Newspaper edition provides for. When this edition is exhausted, the distribution at this price necessarily ends. This paper does not agree to fill orders, but only such orders as it may receive while the edition lasts.

The Text, Notes and Index.

The "Cambridge edition" is the text edited by William George Clark and William Adis Wright, and follows generally the text of the first folio. It has been carefully followed for this edition and the notes by Israel Gollancz are those used in the famous Temple edition, and are as nearly perfect as scholarship can make them.

The greatest charm of this edition is the thirteenth or extra volume. This is a glossary, concordance, and index of first lines, alphabetically arranged, enabling the reader to instantly refer to any character or quotation he may wish to find. It is an invaluable aid to every reader, student and writer, specially made for this edition.

The Style of Manufacture.

The thirteen volumes are gem's of the printer's and book-binder's art. The paper, press-work and binding are of the very best. The type on each page is six inches long by three inches wide, in long primer, and there are 4,000 pages of this size. These make thirteen bound volumes, four inches wide by seven inches long, of about 300 pages each, including an index volume of 320 pages. Handsome illustrations are frontispieces to the volumes.

The binding is in embossed cloth, not only very durable, but very handsome. Each volume has the new patent stitching, and can be doubled backward, without injury. Eight volumes contain three plays each, and the twelfth volume contains one play and all the miscellaneous poems. The thirteenth volume is an index, glossary and concordance to all the plays.

Taken together, it is an edition for the book lover as well as the student, and is in fact the only absolutely perfect edition—in text, in quality, in size, in notes, in glossary and index at anywhere near the price.

PEN, CHISEL AND BRUSH.

Vereschagin, the painter of war scenes, has been gathering material in both camps in the Philippines.

Daniel C. French, the sculptor, is already at work on his design for the Lawton monument, the fund for which has now reached the sum of $4,000.

M. Emile Faguet, the new immortal of the French academy, belongs to the band of modern men of letters in France who rank, for instance, with such writers as Jules Lemaitre, Anatole France and Ferdinand Brunetiere.

Before Tolstol's manuscript goes to the printers a third copy has been made, to include corrections and changes. The count spent five years getting the material for "War and Peace." His wife and daughters are his copyists.

Paintings by Vaselay Brozzick of Bohemia, who died lately in Paris, may be seen at the Metropolitan museum and the Lenox library in New York. They are "Christopher Columbus at the Court of Ferdinand and the Catholic and Isabella of Castile" and "Rodolphe II of Austria and His Alchemist."

THE COOKBOOK.

Always heat a grilliron well before broiling meat, fish or bread on it.

Rhubarb, when stewed, is a most wholesome sweet and best cooked when the peeled fruit has lain in water for an hour or two. It should then be drained and put to a hot sirup, in which it simmers till tender.

Raw cucumbers, according to the best cooks, should be sliced thin and lie in water three hours before using. In paring cucumbers the caution is given that the stem end, holding a bitter flavor, be cut off quite up to the seeds. For the same reason they need to be pared thickly, as the portion next the skin also holds some of the rank flavor.

HOFFMAN'S FUNERAL.

Will Occur in Elmira Tomorrow Afternoon.

Elmira, N. Y., May 14.—The remains of Adjutant General Edward M. Hoffman, who dropped dead in Albany yesterday, arrived in this city at 6 o'clock this morning via the Erie under the charge of a military escort. The funeral party was met at the depot by the officers of the Thirtieth separate company and the immediate members of the dead officer's family. The funeral will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and will probably be public, although detailed arrangements have not been completed pending an answer from Major General Rice regarding the appointment of the Thirtieth separate company to represent the national guard at the services.

General Hoffman had been in the national guard 25 years. He enlisted in the One Hundred and Tenth battalion as a private on Oct. 10, 1874; was commissioned second lieutenant on April 7, 1877; first lieutenant, Thirtieth separate company, on Nov. 29, 1881; lieutenant colonel and assistant adjutant general, Seventh brigade, on Dec. 3, 1884; supernumerary Aug. 5, 1886; first lieutenant, Thirtieth separate company, May 11, 1887; captain Sept. 4, 1890; inspector general Dec. 1, 1896, and was reappointed on Jan. 1, 1907. General Hoffman was appointed by Governor Roosevelt as adjutant general to succeed Adjutant General Avery D. Andrews, resigned, on Jan. 1, 1900, and he was reappointed by Governor Odell. He was one of the best known and most popular officers in the guard.

Company D of the One Hundred and Tenth battalion, with which General Hoffman was identified, saw service in the railroad riots of July, 1877, and the swiftemen's strike in Buffalo in 1892.

General Hoffman was born in Elmira about 45 years ago. By occupation he was a horticulturist and nurseryman. He was married about 15 years ago and is survived by a widow and one son. During the Spanish war he was colonel of the Third regiment, New York volunteers.

The Platt Amendment.

Havana, May 16.—A majority of the committee on relations, Senors Tammayo, Villa and de la Quenda, are in favor of the committee making an immediate report advising the constitutional convention to accept the Platt amendment. Senors Gomez and Sierra are strongly opposed to this action. It is said that Senor Gomez in drawing up the minority report interprets the explanation of Secretary Root as an admission that the United States will change the Platt amendment if the Cubans insist upon it, that clauses will be added guaranteeing the absolute independence of Cuba, that the third clause will be stricken out, as the Monroe doctrine provides for intervention should this be necessary, and that coal stations used for coal shall not be used for naval stations.

Porto Rican Exports.

San Juan, Porto Rico, May 16.—Porto Rican exports from Jan. 1 until May 1 amount to $8,180,400, of which $5,284,341 went to the United States. Chief among these exports was sugar, of which $1,502,150 went to the United States, and $20,180 went to foreign countries. Of the exports of coffee the United States received $4,330, while $1,642,554 went to foreign countries, divided between Spain, Cuba and France in the order named. There has been a large decrease in the exports of coffee since the hurricane. The United States received $220,206 worth of leaf tobacco, while foreign countries received $229,563 worth of the same property. The balance of the exports, amounting to $1,761,417, were cattle, cigars and fruits.

Vice Admiral Bridge in New York.

New York, May 16.—On his way to Yokohama to assume command of the British naval forces in Asiatic waters, Vice Admiral Sir Ephraim Arthur George Bridge, K. C. B., arrived in New York on the Oceanic. Vice Admiral Bridge is accompanied by his staff, consisting of Captain Arthur W. Carter, Lieutenant Hamilton and F. Harrison Smith, staff paymaster and secretary.

Explosion in Kalgan Arsenal.

Peking, May 16.—An explosion at the arsenal at Kalgan yesterday wounded one German officer and four privates. Three German privates are missing. It is supposed that they were blown to pieces. The Germans generally believe that the Chinese intentionally committed the outrage, though evidence to substantiate this view is lacking. A thorough investigation will be made.

HIVE AND BEE.

Select your best stocks from which to raise queens.

Give plenty of drone comb in the center of the brood nest.

If two or more hives cluster together, do not put all in one hive, but divide them.

When the season opens, give your bees abundance of room for storing honey.

Any location where basswood and clover thrive is a good situation for an uplary.

During a scarcity of honey bees will not increase so rapidly as if the honey flow is heavy.

Queen cells should be built in strong colonies. It is no trouble to keep a colony strong if it is supplied with bees and bread from other hives.

Pollen is gathered by bees for the purpose of feeding their young brood. It is the substance they carry on their legs, which is often mistaken for wax.

Parent stocks that have swarmed must depend upon young queens for their existence, and if anything happens to the queen they cannot raise another on account of having no brood of the right age.

JINGLES AND JESTS.
A Meeting.
We sat at the table together;
She cast a glance at me;
Her face was the face of an angel—
A face I was thankful to see.
I felt 'neath the spell of her beauty,
Fond and fondly for letting us meet,
And, blissfully dreaming, I ordered
The things that I wanted to eat.
Her eyes were of velvet softness;
I looked on her face and was glad,
And I felt something sweetly alluring
In the shy, demure manner she had.
Her form was the form of a goddess;
Her face was enchantingly fair;
I was milder, nobler and purer,
For sitting so close to her there.
The waiter bent over her shoulder;
I listened, expecting to hear
Her ask for a cup of ambrosia;
Her presence made heaven seem near!
I thought of those days on Olympus
When goddesses banqueted there;
She ordered "some lamb chops and sausage,"
And I nearly fell out of my chair.

dukes and princes I've refused, and then you are to reluctantly consent and give him your blessing.

WOMEN REMEMBER.
A KNACK THEY HAVE TO WHICH MEN ARE GENERALLY STRANGERS.
Something That Does Not Require Cultivation, but Needs a Little Restraining—The Pretty Notion of Observing Small Anniversaries.
"It is strange," said the man who is successful in business and popular in society—"It is strange how women never forget."
His tone was half reminiscent and half questioning. There was a hint in it that he would like to have the woman to whom he directed his remarks enter into a discussion of the subject.
The woman, a bright and quick witted
one, took the hint, as a wise woman should, for when a man lets fall such a comment as this you may be quite certain that it is but the outcome of a good deal of thought and observation and perhaps a bit of personal experience.
"Yes," agreed the quick witted woman,
"women have the faculty of remembering."
The man who had directed the conversation into that channel looked at her rather questioningly. The same thought, no doubt, flashed through his mind that had entered the woman's—"There is a bit of personal experience lurking behind that."
Continued the man: "Now, for example, this morning I had a letter from a girl I met a year ago in Blankville, where I was spending a holiday or two. We have exchanged a number of letters. She is a good and loyal little friend. This is just a year today reminds me that it is just a year ago since our acquaintance began. It is a curious thing how a woman keeps track of these little events.
Now, to a man—"
"Yes," interrupted the woman, "to a man such matters as meetings and part-ings mean so little. Even when a man is thoroughly devoted he never remembers anniversaries, and more's the pity."
"Why a pity?"
"Oh," answered the woman, "a man's faculty for forgetting the little things that make up so great a part of a woman's existence often causes so many heartaches, you know. It seems to me that since men know so well that women possess the art or the misfortune of remembering so well it might be only a little sign of their gallantry to cultivate a memory for these trifles of life."
The man who had been impressed by the knack women have of remembering and recalling events of the past admitted that perhaps the woman was right; that it would possibly add to the pleasure of life should men improve their memories.
Haven't you seen a man in a most awkward predicament when his loving and admiring little wife said to him,
"My dear, do you remember what day this is?"
Poor fellow! That awful memory of his was that very moment playing him a dreadful trick. He bent about the bush the best he could, trying to gain time and perhaps catch a hint as to what the day really meant to his wife, and if something to her, as a matter of fact, to him also. But his effort nine times out of ten proved vain. If you have a spark of human sympathy in your make up, you are bound to feel sorry for him when his wife, with a gasp, if not a flood of tears, tells him, "It is the tenth anniversary of our marriage."
Then he says this or something very like it: "Why, of course it is. I thought it yesterday and bought you the prettiest present you ever saw. Haven't it come yet? Well, I'll see about it as soon as I get down town."
Now, if the little wife is a wise woman she will keep to herself the fact that she suspects that that present is still to be bought, while the guilty and forgetful husband rushes through his breakfast and hurries down town to fulfill the expectations he has aroused. Of course he will buy a more costly present than he would have done had he remembered that anniversary and had not had to be reminded of it. The present, you see, he feels, must fulfill a double purpose—be a token of remembrance of the anniversary and a peace offering—for he would not have the dear little woman at home feel that she had been in any way neglected or unappreciated.
While the wise woman who has learned that men forget quite as easily as women remember may advise men to cultivate better memories and recommend to women that they cultivate, to a certain degree, the art of forgetting, still she will know all the while that in spite of her goodly preaching women will continue to count days and to remember all that has gone to make them up as long as the world swarms round and round.
Once upon a time it was offered as a reason when explaining the why of a woman's recalling what made up to her the sum of this day or that that there was so little to fill her life that even mere trifles were counted by her as important events. But this reason does not hold as good now as it did years ago, when a woman's life and interests were bounded by her garden walls. The busiest of busy women still have time to remember. There is this good fortune, though: The busy woman keeps all the little tender places in her heart fresh and green, but she has learned that the world is not care to know about them; she has learned that it is better and braver many times to just remember alone, though she is conscious all the while that it would be the dearest thing possible to share her memories with some one in thorough sympathy with herself.
It is a pretty old fashioned notion to keep the family anniversaries. The child whose birthday is allowed to go by without any special notice is being robbed of something that should belong to childhood. When the Easter, Christmas, New Year's and other annual holidays come round there should be some sign in the home by which the children shall know and this remembering and marking of the holidays are a good thing for all to talk too. And the summer holiday—when the long school term comes to an end and there is a period of release from the schoolroom—then, too, there should be an event made of this period. It will be something always to be recalled pleasantly in after years, when the blue and the green of June days are at hand, and there is a restful suggestion of a holiday time that once was, even if it is not to be any more.—Margaret Hannis in St. Louis Republic.

Mr. A. P. Blake of 21 High street, says:—"I had a distressing pain in my back, dizziness and headaches and an annoying urinary difficulty. I went to Dr. Phillips' pharmacy and got Doan's Kidney Pills for it, and they gave me great relief. I had an accident which injured my spine, and my physician told me it was incurable consequently I cannot hope for a permanent cure but I will say this, by taking half a box of Doan's Kidney Pills I was relieved of my backache and the urinary difficulty.
I gave the balance of the box to my son, who was troubled with kidney complaint. They did him so much good that he went and got more and they cured him."

Virgie Prophet, arrested in Manchester for a holdup, and tried once in New York for murder, seems to have been without honor in her own country.

The Shamrock II. has been placed in dry dock and defects have been found in her hull construction. As a cup catcher she don't seem to have been built right.

The finding of human bones under the hearthstone of the Sophie Labor house, built 120 years ago at Danby, Vt., ought to supply some enterprising fictionist with the skeleton for a story, says the Boston Herald. It would necessarily be a historical novel.

Maine needs a corps of state detectives. Not because the regular authorities do not work to the best advantage, but because, as a usual thing, the regular officers seem to have about as much work to do as they can do and do it well. The clearing up of the murder mysteries that follow each other rapidly makes more officers of state authority imperative.

"The Constitution will never follow any other flag than the Stars and Stripes" is a yachting item.—Portsmouth Herald.

Does this mean that the independence is going to lead the way in the trial races? The latter boat will certainly float the Stars and Stripes as will the Constitution.—Brockton Times.

Possibly, but the old flag will never fly in a second-hand wind, unless under such circumstances as the Times mentions.

Evidently the Nashua Press does not indorse what Lord Salisbury has to say in recommendation of the policy of Great Britain in the Transvaal. The Press says: "Great Britain has carried death, destruction, famine and untold sorrow to South Africa in its efforts to steal diamond and gold mines and now, if the truth is told in dispatches, it proposes to burn the country over after the fashion of an American prairie fire. The whole world should be in arms against such a monstrous crime." There are others who agree with the Press.

PICKUPS AT RANDOM.

Well, what does all this hubbub about the propriety of whist playing for prizes, amount to, anyway? It will develop a lot of discussion, pro and con, for a while and then be forgotten. I don't presume any radical action will be taken on it. In the meantime, card parties will continue.

This protest from the ministers has elements which remind me of the Coon club controversy now going on in Manchester. "While the members of this reputable newspaper men's organization were seated quietly at a banquet table in the Windsor hotel, Manchester, last Saturday evening, in stalked two police men, about nine o'clock, looking for something stronger than water or milk to drink. They found it easily; for it has always been the policy of the club to have wine or punch at these spreads. There has never been any secret about it. It was on the table and the thirsty cops took a big swig of it (to make sure that it wasn't kerosene or alcohol, I suppose), and then carried samples of what was left to the police station.

On Monday morning, the two women who conduct the hotel had to appear in the police court and answer to the charge of keeping liquor for sale. They are very worthy women and they run a strictly temperance house (I know, for I have been a guest there). They had nothing whatever to do with the Mayor that the Coon club used. It was bought by the officers of the club who promptly proved it by producing the receipt made out to them personally and taken by them to the banquet hall. It was not for sale, but was for the exclusive use of the banquetting party. Yet Judge Heath, for some reason which it would have puzzled old Solomon himself to discover, fined the two women for keeping liquor for sale. And this after the club officers had expressly declared that the two proprietresses had no part in procuring or serving the drinkables.

But what I've been all this time ariving at is this: at the very moment when those two cops were rudely disturbing a pleasant party of well behaved gentlemen (the Coon club men were never anything else than well behaved) and raising a hullabaloo over two or three bottles of wine and lager beer, 140 saloons, more probably, (Manchester is honeycombed with them) were doing a thriving open bar business, a dozen of them within a stone's throw of the Windsor, in direct defiance to the laws of this state. If consistency is a jewel, then the Manchester police department's stock of jewels wouldn't raise ten cents at a pawn shop.

Here's my point, then: while the ministers of Portsmouth are working themselves into a sweat over the practice of having whist sessions at the fire engine houses, on every side other parties are being held by men's clubs, women's clubs, West end clubs, South end clubs, and a third of the parish ioners of this city are themselves playing for prizes ranging from baby cars to bags of peanuts. To make it still plainer: the ministers might well give their own church members a dressing down from the pulpit, and cool off the whist fever in their own midst, before wandering outside their folds and trying to fasten wickedness upon any particular class of Pharisees.

I am awaiting the coming of Sunday with eager interest, to see whether or not any of those good pastors will have the sand (yes, that's a right good word), to lay down the law from their altars, well knowing that they will hit hard probably half of the congregation before them. I confess that I expect they will all be mum as a New Castle clam with the blues. But we'll wait for Sunday morning and find out.

Meanwhile, all you fellows who persist in playing this naughty game and running the risk of bringing up in place of fire and sulphur can find a little consolation in the fact that it is not half the crime that bank robbery is, or horse thieving, or murder, and that there is still a ray of hope for your degenerate souls. And if you should happen to win as a prize a barrel of flour, (the

The fact that all women suffer during the birth-hour lends a great many women to accept a degree of suffering which is altogether unnecessary. Sometimes it is hours, sometimes days before the struggle is over. No medicine can absolutely eliminate pain from this time of travail, but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can and does make the baby's advent practically painless. It acts upon the organs of maternity, giving them strength and elasticity. It produces physical comfort and mental cheerfulness. It is an effective tonic, giving the mother abundant nutrition for her child.

I believe I owe my life to Dr. Pierce's remedy and have long felt it my duty to acknowledge the benefit I received from Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets. I suffered terribly from constipation. I changed to see one of your advertisements and concluded to try the above remedies. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets and began to improve right away and continued improving and gaining in strength. I cannot express the relief I was so great. Seven months later my little daughter was born without much trouble. I feel that I would never have been able to endure my confinement only for the help she so kindly sent me. I feel that she was a fine healthy child and the only one I have ever been able to nurse.

firemen have been giving away such useful things as that.) and it should make good bread, don't for a minute have any scruples about eating it. You came by it just as honestly as the people at church fairs who take a chance in a grab bag or a fish pond and get something that they carry home.

Another thing, before we drop this very fruitful topic: I never could figure out how the person who plays at a whist party is any greater fool than he who participates in a donkey party or some other of those asinine pastimes so frequently indulged in at church socials. When you think of an adult, presumably in his or her right mind, being blindfolded and making frantic endeavors to pin a red flannel tail onto a paper jackass, on the wall, while all the other idiots prance around with the howls of lunatics and poke him or her in the ribs, doesn't it call to mind Darwin's missing link?

But every man has a right to his own opinion: here's mine. Now I open this column to any clergyman in town who has anything to say on this question. And the stronger he puts his side of the case, the more interesting it will be.

By the way, wasn't that protest from the ministers a trifle tardy? They must know, if they have read the newspapers, that these whist parties have been going on since last autumn, about every evening. Their season is now practically over.

THE GRANDEST OF MUSIC.

The Serenade Sung by the Bostonians is Classified as Such by Critics.

Music will hold sway at Music hall on Wednesday evening [next, May 22], when that famous company of singers, the Bostonians, appear in Victor Herbert's The Serenade. This famous company has a most remarkable reputation for giving good performances and so well known are the famous singers that appear here, that extended comment is unnecessary.

The artists who sing in The Serenade include such talented people as Henry Clay Barnabee, W. H. MacDonald, Estelle Wentworth, George Frothingham, Albert Parr, John Dunsenre, W. E. Fitzgerald, Josephine Bartlett, Mabel Pierson, Adele Rafter, Charles B. Hawley, and others, supported by a chorus of fifty voices and a well trained orchestra under the direction of S. L. Studley.

So well is The Serenade known that but brief notice is necessary to state its merits. It is the most vital and popular of American operas, and still continues to appeal to music lovers as when first produced. Victor Herbert has never composed a better opera, and the music, dainty and melodious, is of the kind easily caught by the whistler and remains firmly fixed in the memory.

The story by Harry B. Smith is an unusually attractive one, replete with humorous episodes and giving every opportunity for comedy work. The splendid love interest is evolved out of the episodes and there is romance and color enough to suit the most critical.

The action is laid in Spain in the sixteenth century and recounts the adventures of Alvarado, a baritone of the royal opera, who has carried on a flirtation with Dolores, a lady of rank and betrothed to the Duke of Santa Cruz. The baritone has addressed a serenade to her, and in order to circumvent the singer, the Duke has the young lady carried to his estate in the country.

The baritone follows, becomes ensconced in the household, and later turns up as a convert of St. Angelo, where his lady love is confined. Her release and subsequent marriage with Alvarado are the principal incidents of the story. There is a strong counterplot, in which various personages figure and all the characters of the opera are happily fitted with effective songs.

PAN-AMERICAN CONTEST.

Mr. Hanscom Increases His Lead
By Votes Today.

Mr. Leary and Mr. Fernald Follow In the Order Named.

How the List Looks on Account of the Voting for the Day.

The lead of Mr. Hanscom was increased today, slightly, by the receipt of votes. Mr. Leary and Mr. Fernald follow in the order named.

By a slip in the reading matter on Thursday evening, Mr. Leary was said to be in third place, when it should have stated second place, as the list of candidates showed.

The list is as follows:

|---|------|
| Charles W. Hanscom, K.G.E. | 2270 |
| John F. Leary, A. O. H. | 2140 |
| William S. Fernald, Chemical Engine Co. No. 5. | 1459 |
| Charles D. Varrell, Sagamore S. F. E. Co. | 1358 |
| Harold N. Hett, Portsmouth Bicycle club. | 1261 |
| Col. John P. Tibbets, Gen. Gilman Marston command, U. V. U. | 983 |
| Dennis J. Lynch, Kearsarge Engine Co. | 973 |
| Edwin F. Rowe, Warner club | 82 |
| Charles H. Kehoe, M. H. Goodrich Co. | 56 |
| John Haw, W. J. Sampson, H. & L. Co. | 21 |
| Fred Manson, M. H. Goodrich Co. | 17 |
| W. J. Kehoe, P. C. C. | 16 |
| Capt. Horace E. Pevery, Co. B, N. H. N. G. | 12 |
| John A. Harmon, assistant engineer, P. F. D. | 12 |
| George Jones, Kearsarge Engine Co. | 7 |

The conditions of the contest are as follows, a most liberal offer:

The Portsmouth Herald agrees to send three residents of Portsmouth, who are either members of the Portsmouth fire department, a social club or of some secret society, to the Pan-American exposition, pay all their expenses from the time they leave, until they return, including a week in Buffalo, with board and lodging and admission to the exposition daily.

This offer beats anything ever announced by any newspaper in New England, and is so far above the expense and interest of a trip to the national inauguration that it cannot be mentioned in the same class.

The contest will not be restricted to gentlemen but will be open to any lady who is a member of the various secret societies or auxiliary societies in Portsmouth.

The trip will include stop over privileges en route and returning and first class accommodations will be provided. In order that every detail of the grand tour may be properly looked after, the publishers will either send an agent in advance or with the party to make arrangements.

Everybody knows that the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo is to be grander and greater in every way than the World's fair and the visit will be the event of a lifetime.

The contest opened on Monday, March 4, when the first ballot appeared and which will appear daily until June 1, next, the last ballot to appear on the latter date, and the three persons having the greatest number of votes will have the grand privilege that has been offered. The last ballots must be received at the Herald office by 7:30 p. m., on Wednesday June 5, and the results of the contest will be announced at the earliest possible date.

This is an opportunity never before equalled in this section of the country and well worth the attention of every one eligible for such a trip. Vote early and vote often. Elect yourself.

FOUGHT FOR HIS LIFE.

"My father and sister both died of Consumption," writes J. T. Weatherwax, of Wyandotte, Mich., "and I was saved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. KITTERY.

Regular prayer meetings at the churches this Friday evening.
Mrs. Nellie Clark of Somerville, Mass., is the guest of her father, Mr. John Pettigrew.

Miss Annabel Amee of Kittery Point is working in Miss Sides' millinery parlors, Portsmouth.

Mr. Fred Bradbury and family of Dover came down to their cottage at the Intervene this morning.

Mr. Ray Heeney of Biddeford is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heeney, Central street, this week.

Mrs. John S. Whidden of Exeter has been the guest of her father, Mr. Arthur Williams, this week.

Miss Vienna Stinson, of the Portsmouth training school, is restricted to her home by a slight sickness today.

A party has been made up at Kittery Point, to attend the production of The Serenade, by the Bostonians at Music Hall, Portsmouth, next Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Harry Stimpson and son Roger Stimpson, who have been the guests of Mrs. Stimpson's mother, Mrs. Margaret Norton, have returned to their home in Marlboro, Mass.

Stephen Quinn of Brooklyn, N. Y., a former resident of Kittery, has been visiting in town, on business. Mr. Quinn was formerly employed as a sailmaker on the Portsmouth navy yard.

The graduating class of the Kittery High school has selected handsome class rings. The members of the class have also prepared their essays and have handed them to the principal for his approval and corrections.

The makeup on the Kittery ball nine, which will play the Marine nine at the navy yard grounds on Saturday afternoon, will be as follows: Hussey, s; Shanahan, 1; McDonnell, c; Paul, p; Lameiro, 1; Bunker, 2; Shirling, 3; Boulter, c; Gerry, r f. The Kittery boys are confident of winning the game.

The funeral of Capt. Samuel Tobey was held at the Free Baptist church in Kittery Point at two o'clock this afternoon. The pastor, Rev. Victor Morse, officiated, the church being well filled with the townspeople and relatives. Among those present was Rev. Manning P. Tobey, son of the deceased. The interment was in the family cemetery, the funeral director being Mr. Oliver W. Ham of Portsmouth.

The meeting of the teachers of York, Kittery and Eliot, connected with the York County Teachers' association, will be held Monday, May 27, at the Second Christian church, Kittery. The visiting teachers will be entertained, and it is hoped much interest will be manifested. The York County meetings are to be held in three places this spring, instead of holding a central meeting. The exercises begin at 2:00 and 7:30 p. m., and will be as follows:

BIG DAMAGES ASKED.

In the case of the fruit steamer Admiral Schley, which was libeled Wednesday afternoon in the U. S. district court in Boston in the sum of $7500 by the Consolidated Coal company, the owners of the steamer Charles F. Mayer, as a result of the collision between the vessels off Boston lightship April 5, a bond was filed by the United Fruit company releasing the Schley, and she will sail for Jamaica ports. It is possible that a cross libel will be brought against the Charles F. Mayer by the owners of the steamer.

BASE BALL DEVELOPMENTS.

Manager Hett, of the Maplewood A. C. base ball team, received a letter, on Wednesday, from manager Sullivan of Somersworth, stating that a hitch had occurred in the arrangements for the organization of the proposed Northern league. It seems that the Dover electric railway magnates are unwilling to rent the diamond at Central park to an independent organization, which would charge admission to games, the plan being to admit the public free to all games played on the diamond, the railway people depending upon the fans for their profits. No base ball league, of course, could play games under such conditions, and unless the railway company is willing to subsidize the teams which play at Central park, base ball conditions in Dover and Somersworth are likely to be very chaotic this season.

It is possible, of course, that the league may not become an assured fact, and it is also likely that Portsmouth will have league representation, in any case, as Manager Hett has strong hopes of making other arrangements, in case Dover and Somersworth are unable to place teams in an organization such as has been advocated.

PORTSMOUTH COUNCIL.

Portsmouth council, No. 8, O. U. A. M., held a regular meeting at Pythian hall on Thursday, about eighty being present. The third degree was worked on a class of six. After the degree work a collation, catered by Currier and Dunbar was served. The members were greatly gratified to learn that Brother Hanscom led in the Herald voting contest, and many complimentary remarks were passed on the fine likeness of him in that evening's Herald.

OBITUARY.

Samuel J. Walker.

The death of Samuel J. Walker, a well known navy yard workman, occurred at his home, No. 22 Washington street on Thursday night, at the age of sixty seven years and seven months. He is survived by a wife, a daughter and two brothers, the latter being residents of Rye.

Only ten cottages at York Harbor remain unrented, and parties are negotiating for these. The outlook is unpromising.

One of the state departments is collecting a remarkable lot of statistics in regard to fish catching in New Hampshire in past years.

The government seems to be keeping its civil engineers moving from place to place. We are to lose Capt. Taylor, who succeeded Maj. Fiske.

The house lots to be sold by Auctioneer Hanscom next Wednesday range from 145 to 120 feet deep and are the most desirable kind of dwelling sites.

The White Hart hotel at the corner of Vaughan and Russell streets is to be torn down by the owners. The Boston & Maine railroad has needed the room for a long time. The structure has for many years been one of the landmarks of the city.

ATTACKED BY A DEER

A TUSSELE THAT MADE A COLD MORNING FEEL PRETTY HOT.

The Animal Was a Tame One, but That Only Made It the More Vicious—Where the Faithful Dog Did Not Do the Rescuing Act.

A few years ago I was stationed at Fort Meade, in South Dakota. One exceedingly cold day I had occasion to go to the neighboring town, and as it was so unusually cold, I concluded I would walk, for the distance was but a few miles, and I thought I would be more comfortable in going that way than by either riding or driving. I was warmly dressed and wore German socks and enormous arctics upon my feet. I was well enough adapted to walking along, but as there were a few inches of snow upon the ground I was not exactly tricked out in the best manner for a scuffle, as events proved.

As I was leaving the house my wife called out to me, asking if I couldn't bring her a few eggs, as she was entirely out and could get none elsewhere in such cold weather. I told her I guessed I might probably bring a half dozen in my overcoat pockets. I attended to my affairs in town in due season, purchased the eggs, putting three in each pocket, and had got about half way home when I saw coming toward me in the road a pretty fair sized white tailed buck.

I had heard that one of the men had recently got a tame deer, and I inferred at once that this was the one and that he had broken out of his yard, so I walked along, paying no further attention to him. My setter was with me, and, as he trotted on ahead, of course he couldn't resist the temptation to bark a little at the deer. The deer apparently paid no attention to the dog, but as I approached he made quite a semicircle in order to pass me on the road, holding his head down and facing toward me all the while in a most peculiar manner.

In fact, his threatening aspect as he passed me awakened my suspicions, and I turned around to see what he was up to. It was doubtless well for me that I did so, for I discovered the rascal within a few feet of me, his head still lowered, and in the act of charging me from the rear. There appeared but one thing for me to do, and that was to seize him by the antlers.

I lost no time in acting upon this inspiration, and as I weigh about 175 pounds and am fairly vigorous I had no great difficulty in holding his head so close to the ground that he was unable to use his fore feet upon me, as he was evidently attempting to do. We scuffled and tore around in the snow, my great arctics and German socks preventing me from getting any foothold whatever whereby I could get the better of him, and, though he bruised me in good shape with the points of his antlers with every rush that he made upon me, nevertheless I dared not let go of them for fear I should be attacked in the face with his sharp hoofs, so we kept up the struggle.

I have said that the day was cold when I started out, but after a few minutes' engagement with this partner I didn't find it cold at all, and even yet I can remember how hot it was in Dakota that February morning. I was also getting pretty well out of breath, while the deer's courage appeared as good as ever, and I was beginning to wonder how I was going to excuse myself from so objectionable a partner.

In the story books the hunter's faithful dog frequently rescues him from such perilous positions by bravely rushing in and seizing the foe by the throat, but mine discreetly kept at a distance, and, though I believe he brought the whole mischief on by barking at the deer in the first place, instead of coming to my relief like a good story book dog he made matters worse by continuing to irritate the deer by his barking.

I had hitherto remained quiet to preserve my strength, but I recalled seeing some men cutting ice at no great distance away on my way to town, though the pond was screened from my present view by a fringe of bushes. I saw no prospect of getting the better of the deer myself, and the only way out of it seemed the chance of making those men hear me if they were still there. I called as lustily as I could, and in the course of time three men came and relieved me of my troublesome antagonist. Perhaps it is needless to say that my wife never made any cake out of those eggs.

I found upon subsequent inquiry that this buck had been raised as a pet upon a large cattle ranch, and the herders had constantly irritated him for the purpose of making him show fight until they had got him so cross that it was dangerous to have him around, and the manager had got rid of him on this account—Forest and Stream.

Cought Him at Last.

"The other day," said the literary inclined man, "I sent in a manuscript to an eastern magazine, and of course it was turned down. I wouldn't have cared for that, but the editor attacked my originality by saying that something had been written along those same lines in some other magazine somewhere."

"Well, what did you do?" inquired the patient listener.

"Oh, I wrote another story and sent it in. It was returned in the same way and for the same alleged reasons. However, not being discouraged, I wrote still another story and sent that to him. He sent that back too."

"After that what did you do?"

"Sat down and wrote an article entitled 'The Lack of Originality Among Prominent Authors,' and I blamed it! I didn't get a check for it."—Denver Times.

STRIKE MORE SERIOUS.

Mob of Thousands of Men Attacks Militia in Streets.

PROOPEERS USE THEIR SABERS.

Crowd Fights to Get at Nonunion Men Inside a Circle of Fast Riding Cavalrymen—Several of the Riders Wounded.

Albany, May 16.—Riot and bloodshed closed a day which otherwise was without incident, except for the arrival of troops from various parts of the state to protect the property and the handful of still faithful employees of the United Tractor company and its 40 miles of railroad. Followed by a hooting crowd of thousands of strike sympathizers and under the protection of 60 mounted soldiers, with sabers drawn, 70 men who arrived here just before 6 o'clock to take the place of the strikers were the targets for missiles, broken bricks and stones.

Five of the newcomers were frightfully wounded about the heads, and others had their arms bruised and lamed. Six or eight of those who had intended to take the place of strikers jumped from the wagons in which they were huddled and sought refuge in the crowds.

Learning that these men were coming, a great mob crowded into the streets in the vicinity of the New York Central station. Broadway was almost an immovable mass. Every doorway and window was filled with men, women and even children, who believed trouble was imminent.

Ten minutes before the train was due 60 mounted men of the signal corps came down State street with sabers drawn. Captain C. J. Wheeler was in command. Driving the crowds before them, the signal corps formed in two platoons, leaving a wide space between for the intended motormen and conductors.

Five lumber box wagons, intended to carry the new men, drove into Steuben street, leading to the railroad station. The drivers here dropped their reins and deserted their teams. New drivers had to be substituted under police protection.

Missiles Flung by Thousands.

Then the 70 men were led to the waiting wagons and piled in indiscriminately. Captain Wheeler led off his command at a brisk trot. As the wagons became visible to the crowd from all sides came yells of derision and cries of "Scab!" As the cavalcade turned up State street a hail of broken bricks and stones, torn from the newly repaired pavement, fell upon the men huddled in the wagons. Realizing their danger, four of the men jumped from the wagons and were soon lost in the mob.

The shower of missiles seemed to increase. In front of the Hotel Ten Eyck a brick struck one of the men in the wagon full in the face, and in an instant he was covered with blood. Company A of the Tenth battalion had been drawn up on the lodge side of the Ten Eyck, and as the wagons and signal corps men passed the infantrymen dashed across the street at double quick to head off the crowd, but in vain.

Then came a charge at a gallop up toward Capitol hill, where the procession turned into Washington avenue. The jeers and cries of the thousands could be heard for blocks, and the air was filled with missiles. Captain Wheeler led his men up Washington avenue. Four more men in the wagons were struck, receiving bad scalp wounds, from which the blood flowed down their faces. Several members of the signal corps also were struck, but not seriously hurt.

When the cavalcade reached the car barns, the men were hurriedly unloaded from the wagons and taken to the second floor, where 100 cots had been provided. Dr. Edward G. Cox, a police surgeon, who is also medical attendant for the street railway company, was hastily sent for to care for the wounded.

Several of the men thought they had not had a sufficient guard to protect them on the way from the station and further said it would be impossible for them to take places on cars and run them unless they were given permission to carry revolvers.

During the day several of the men who had been brought from other points to take the places of the strikers and had been quartered in the Quail street barns deserted, believing that they would fare ill at the hands of the strikers.

Disorders at Car Barns.

There were constant scenes of disorder in the vicinity of the Quail street car sheds throughout the afternoon. In these Companies C and B of the Twenty-third regiment, with Major D. K. Case in command, figured prominently. Since the strikers had been quartered in the car barns and piled stones on the roofs of cars was the order.

The strikers, thinking their own arrival of the Twenty-third regiment and the two companies quartered in the car barns, prepared to make the movement of the men of the force, man of a repair wagon out and put the men and left with their own hands under them to keep them from interfering with the movement of the force.

A wagon of the repair force was sent out to the street and attempted to be sent out.

Major Case, who was sent out, was sent out.

Major Case, who was sent out, was sent out.

viety to withdraw to their houses and close the blinds. Sympathies of these were unquestionably with the strikers, who gathered on the corners and made insulting remarks to the militiamen.

"All ready, men," Major Case said, addressing the repair crew. "Run out your wagon." In an instant the wagon came out of the power house. Linemen ran up the ladders and began to mend the broken wires. Major Case, with drawn revolver, and his men deployed so that they commanded not only Washington avenue on the one hand, but Madison avenue on the other, two blocks distant from the car barns. The men repairing the lines were permitted to continue their work without interference. The major was simply following out the lesson that he had learned by his experience in the Brooklyn strikes of 1896.

The lines were fully repaired, and all was made ready for the morning. Major Case, in command of the same companies, an hour and a half later employed the riot tactics to clear Quail street and Madison avenue where it intersects with Quail. The strikers had congregated on the corners and in their headquarters and neighboring saloons. One company was sent first to hold the crowd back at Steuben street and another to keep them in check at Washington avenue.

Streets Cleared by Charge.

It was now 6 o'clock. Women had gathered on the little stoops of their two storied houses to give their support to the striking employees.

Major Case consulted with a junior officer a minute and then said:

"That crowd at Sherman street has got to be cleared out at the point of the bayonet. March your company down there at once and clean all before you."

The officer formed his company in column of fours and then, giving the order that brought them into company front, extending across Quail street from house to house, began the charge at double quick. Men and women, some of the latter with children in their arms, scampered to places of protection.

Some of the soldiers, turning down Sherman street to the right and left, drove the crowds in front of them, prodding with their bayonets those who did not move fast enough. Driven into corners, many of the men turned and began an almost hand to hand fight with their pursuers, who touched them with their bayonets and when that was not effective used the butts of their guns.

One man in his flight turned abruptly on Major Case and refused to be driven any farther. The major with a blow from the broadside of his sword felled the man to the street.

An alarm of fire was sounded from the corner of Quail street and Washington avenue at half past 8 o'clock last evening, and immediately the rumor spread that the barns of the traction company had been set on fire. It turned out that some one had started a fire under the cars near Madison avenue on Quail street by setting aflame the bags of shavings used by the strikers to stop the progress of cars on Wednesday. It took but a few moments for the fire department to extinguish the flames and save the cars.

The Machinists' Strike.

Indianapolis, May 16.—The United Mine Workers of America, the strongest organization that affiliates with the American Federation of Labor, has not up to this time given open support to the machinists, who throughout the country are demanding an advance in wages and a nine hour workday. If there shall be a general strike, which does seem probable at this time, the mine workers will do what they can to help the machinists. President Mitchell of the mine workers said that he did not know what the organization would do in case there should be a general strike, as the matter had not been considered, but that they would do what they could. The machinists who are employed in the mines belong to the mine workers' organization, so they would not be called out if the national organization of the machinists should declare a strike.

Farewell Banquet to Chaffee.

Peking, May 16.—Dr. Munim von Schwartzstein gave a farewell banquet to General Chaffee, at which he paid a grateful tribute to the Americans and to their conduct during their stay in China. Replying to the compliments of the German minister, General Chaffee said: "Some of my most pleasant memories of China will be of my association with the Germans, and I shall always esteem myself fortunate in having been able to meet and admire that grand old man, Count von Waldersee. I hope he will see his way to return to Germany through the United States." Count von Waldersee, who seemed deeply touched, said he hoped it would be possible for him to do as General Chaffee had suggested.

Strike in Havana.

Havana, May 16.—The stevedores and lightermen are out on a general strike against Zaldo & Co., who control the lighter privileges in Havana harbor. The steamers Morro Castle and Segurancra are consequently being unloaded at the wharfs. The strikers have several grievances.

Six Killed in Mine Explosion.

Fairmont, W. Va., May 16.—Six miners lost their lives, five were fatally injured and three seriously burned in an explosion at the shaft of the George's Creek Coal and Iron company at Farmington, seven miles west of this city, on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Miss Long Much Better.

Colorado Springs, May 16.—The condition of Miss Long, daughter of Secretary of the Navy Long, is much improved.

MRS. M'KINLEY VERY ILL

Members of the Cabinet Fear She Will Not Recover.

EFFORTS OF DOCTORS FRUITLESS.

Physicians Unable to Check Intestinal Trouble—Patient at Conscious Intervals Asks For President—Has Taken Only Liquid Food For Days.

San Francisco, May 16.—After dinner last night the members of President McKinley's cabinet called at the Scott residence, where Mrs. McKinley is lying ill. They reported Mrs. McKinley's condition as unchanged. When she is conscious, she recognizes the president and asks for him.

There is no abandonment of hope that she will rally, but in her weakened condition there could not fail to be apprehension lest the spark of life might go out.

Secretary Cortelyou at 9 o'clock last night gave out the following bulletin: "The physicians report an improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition since noon today."

From a source not official, but very close to the executive household, it is stated that Mrs. McKinley's condition is worse than Secretary Cortelyou will admit. It is stated that a persistent attack of dysentery, which developed in three days, has reduced her to a shadow of her former self. The felon which developed on her hand about the same time the dysentery started caused her to have high fever, which weakened her greatly.

She suffered intense pain, which increased her nervousness and naturally aggravated her condition. The combination of these two causes has depressed her spirits and is responsible for her present serious condition. A person, not a member of the official party, said:

"Mrs. McKinley is as sick as any woman I ever saw."

At 10 o'clock last night the members of the cabinet were very apprehensive that Mrs. McKinley would not rally. Her physicians have not yet been able to check the intestinal trouble, and her enfeebled condition militates against her. At the Scott residence at that hour it was stated that a change for the worse would not be unexpected.

After the consultation last night Dr. Rixey and Dr. Hirschfelder remained in attendance. Secretary and Mrs. Hay joined the president at 9:30 o'clock.

At 11 p. m. Dr. Hirschfelder left the Scott residence. At that time Mrs. McKinley was reported to be slightly better. A few moments later Dr. Rixey, who had been in constant attendance for over 24 hours, retired to get a little rest.

The Trip Abandoned.

Owing to the very serious character of Mrs. McKinley's illness the president has definitely decided to abandon his contemplated northwestern tour and to return to Washington direct as soon as Mrs. McKinley shall be able to stand the journey.

The gravity of Mrs. McKinley's condition has been known to the members of the president's immediate party for several days, but had been concealed in the belief that she would rally, as she had so frequently done in the past when suffering from one of her periods of depression, and with a few days of absolute rest be restored to normal condition. But her present illness has been attended with entirely new complications which have not yielded to treatment, and the president concluded yesterday morning that it was time the public should be apprised of the true situation.

He is also anxious that the residents of the cities and towns along the planned route of his return trip who have made such extensive preparations for his visit should receive prompt notification of the circumstances which compel his decision. The bulletin which Secretary Cortelyou gave out announcing the abandonment of the trip, coupled with another announcement that Mrs. McKinley's condition was better in some respects, but worse in others, prepared the way for the bulletin issued two hours later that Dr. Henry Gibbons, a celebrated physician of San Francisco, had been called in consultation with Dr. Hirschfelder and Dr. Rixey.

Dr. Gibbons Called In.

Dr. Gibbons has a reputation here for his skill in the treatment of bowel disorders. It was the president's wish that another physician be called in consultation, not because he did not have perfect confidence in Dr. Hirschfelder and Dr. Rixey, but because he desired that nothing that science could do should be left undone. He was especially anxious that the diagnoses of the attending physicians should agree.

Ever since Mrs. McKinley arrived at the Scott residence she has been desperately ill. Her extreme weakness has been the most alarming feature of her condition. Her vitality has been at low ebb, and she has spoken seldom to those about her. The president has been continually at her bedside since the few hours Monday night when he left her to go to San Jose and the three hours he spent on Wednesday in the parade. Fortunately Mrs. McKinley kept through his absence on both occasions.

Prominent Buffalo Man Dead.

Buffalo, May 16.—William Kent, 87 years old, formerly of the firm of George A. Prince & Co. and one of the city's oldest business men, was struck by a train last night at the foot of Porter avenue. He died on the way to the hospital.

Mrs. Gage Improving.

Washington, May 16.—Mrs. Gage rested comfortably yesterday, and last night her condition on the whole showed a slight improvement.

MARINE OFFICER ARRESTED.

Colonel Cochrane Looks Up Colonel Goodrell in Manila.

Manila, May 16.—An unhappy situation has developed at the headquarters of the marines in Cavite. Colonel Henry C. Cochrane recently was ordered home, and Lieutenant Colonel Marcel C. Goodrell, formerly commander under Colonel Cochrane in Olongapo, was ordered to relieve him. When Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell arrived to succeed Colonel Cochrane, the two officers had an altercation, which resulted in Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell's denouncing alleged acts of Colonel Cochrane in connection with the Olongapo command.

Colonel Cochrane reported to Rear Admiral Kempff that Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell was intoxicated, and that night he arrested him, ostensibly on the authority of Rear Admiral Kempff. The admiral disclaimed having given such an order and reported the situation to Washington, with the result that Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell remains in custody, and Lieutenant Colonel Allan C. Kelton has been placed in command at Cavite, relieving Colonel Cochrane. All are now awaiting the result of a court inquiry.

Previous to this incident Colonel Cochrane had imprisoned Major and Assistant Quartermaster Thomas C. Prince for alleged disobedience to requisitions. But Major Prince was unanimously vindicated by the court and continues his duties as assistant quartermaster.

Colonel Cochrane also complained of Major Littleton W. T. Waller on account of some difficulty with Private Gardner over an alleged disturbance by Gardner at a dinner party in Major Waller's house. Gardner has been tried and acquitted, and this, according to Colonel Cochrane, strengthens the allegation against Major Waller.

OUTLOOK DARK.

What South African Correspondent of Times Says.

London, May 16.—The Pretoria correspondent of The Times, in a letter dated April 16, says: "In another fortnight the South African winter will have arrived, and unless the Boers are prevented from moving north to the bush veldt and hostilities are somehow ended there will be another spell of severe and unsatisfactory campaigning in an impossible country, together with five months of comparative peace in the two colonies, to be broken by a recrudescence of guerrilla operations all over the country when the spring rains enable the enemy to operate on the high veldt."

"But this will mean no respite to the troops, no moving into whiter quarters, but only a continuance of the most demoralizing warfare that can be undertaken."

The correspondent then describes a "strenuous scheme which is on foot to prevent the enemy retreating north into winter quarters," but he does not appear to be very sanguine of its success.

"The figures of the intelligence bureau," he says, "show that there are still between 18,000 and 19,000 burghers available for service, although no commando is known to exist larger than 800 men."

Cuban Transports to Be Sold.

Washington, May 16.—The transports that have been used between New York and the West Indies will be sold at public auction about July 1. Colonel Kimball, quartermaster at New York has been requested to make a report on several subjects in connection with the transportation business, including the advisability of abandoning the government dock in the East river. It is probable that the dock or part of it will be abandoned by the government when the Atlantic transport business is turned over to the transportation companies.

Mr. Morgan Back in Paris.

London, May 16.—Mr. Morgan has returned to Paris. He will not return to America until June. This, in conjunction with his departure from London, is regarded as an indication of his opinion that the crisis has been averted and as confirming a New York cable dispatch announcing that a compromise between Mr. Morgan and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had been arrived at in New York.

Ready to Launch the Independence

Boston, May 16.—All is in readiness for the launching of the Independence. The ways are completed and the cradle is built. Last night, however, it was authoritatively stated that the launch would not take place today. The probability is that it will be Saturday night, and the tide will be high at 11:25 o'clock.

New York, May 16.—The Herald this morning says:

"It is a matter of current report that John W. Gates, who sailed for Europe on the St. Louis yesterday, has gone to continue an aggressive campaign against J. Pierpont Morgan, having allied himself with several other who are not in sympathy with Mr. Morgan's methods and interests."

"The story is also told that Mr. Gates has been particularly bitter since an interview that occurred in Mr. Morgan's private office several weeks ago."

"Few will admit that Mr. Gates, even with his millions and his friends with their millions can wage a successful warfare upon Mr. Morgan. There are those, however, who attempt to give the impression that Mr. Gates has found powerful allies among men who have not heretofore been identified with the opposition to the Morgan interests.
